INSIGHTS

The shift to subscription software shows no signs of slowing, with the global SaaS market projected to nearly double from about $399B in 2024 to $819B by 2030. As more companies adopt recurring revenue models, that shift brings new testing challenges, like recurring payment systems and unfamiliar security gaps.

As new SaaS delivery models emerge, Centercode helps companies gather the customer insights they need to navigate unfamiliar territory. Features like task automation and granular access controls handle the heavy lifting so you can focus on fixing the issues that impact success at release.
